

Inside the news—briefly

Turner on way out as director of CIA?

Detroit

The Detroit News reported that White House aides and Defense Secretary Harold Brown are looking for a face-saving way to fire Adm. Stansfield Turner as CIA director.

The newspaper said President Carter has agreed with advisers to move his former U.S. Naval Academy classmate out of the job because of fading morale within the agency, coupled by dissatisfaction with the director's "style and competence."